CHRIST'S COLLEGE
CANTERBURY

Each boy at his best.

From the Executive Principal

We live in unsettling times, and the present stand-off between North Korea and the USA and escalation in threatening rhetoric has been disconcerting and upsetting for many.

But in our College community, the boys have been the fortunate recipients of some very different messages, which provide a welcome and aspirational contrast.

First: International Week

This student-led initiative highlighted the Round Square Ideal of Internationalism. Coordinated by a committee led by Year 13 student Vincent Li, and through a wide range of fun events and activities, International Week promotes the strengths of international diversity within College and our wider community. At the start of the week in Chapel, on Monday 7 August, Vincent spoke eloquently about cultural differences, expectations and the need for greater understanding.

Second: Dr Michael Kimmel

This internationally-renowned author, sociologist and gender studies expert from Stony Brook University, New York, gave a great deal of time to the boys during his visit, sharing his wisdom with them and their parents. Michael spent time in some of our English classes, gave a presentation at a parents' information evening, and was guest speaker at our Father & Son breakfast. Michael's key messages had two particular elements: the first was associated with privilege and acceptance; and the second was about understanding the nature of gender and the opportunities that exist for schools like College to educate the "good man".

Third: The Very Revd Professor Martyn Percy

The historical connections between College and Christ Church, Oxford, are substantial, and we were privileged to work with the Christchurch City Council to host a civic reception and special dinner for The Very Revd Professor Martyn Percy, Dean of Christ Church Oxford. Martyn also spoke at the school's Centre for Ethics & Spirituality and at Chapel. He brought together philosophy and religion in a way that was truly inspiring. His presentations to both the boys and the wider community was about how we are so much more human and more Christian when we fully embrace, celebrate and accept others.

To be a great school, Christ's College must be a community where all are welcome – where each is as significant as the other and, culturally, we aspire to be Christ-like in our relationships. Such behaviour and disposition starts with our gospel-inspired virtues and finishes in our everyday interactions with those around us. Such openness and acceptance of diversity is challenging at times, but is our community at its best.

From the Chaplain

Visit of the Dean of Christ Church, Oxford

It was a delight to host The Very Revd Professor Martyn Percy, the Dean of Christ Church, Oxford. His address at the school's Centre for Ethics & Spirituality on What it means to be an inclusive church went to the foundations of Christianity as a movement that included and incorporated those who were normally excluded. It was great to have two Bishops, Board members, staff, parents, students, and people from the wider community present. I think that Jesus's vision of rejoicing in rather than fearing difference is such an important one for our students and for the wider world.

On Friday Martyn addressed Chapel, focusing on education being not just for ourselves but to enable us to make positive change in the world in which we live. Martyn was welcomed into Chapel as we sang the school's new waiata, "Te Whakapono Ki Te Atua". This is the first time we have used this waiata to welcome someone to College.

Work on Chapel windows

I am thrilled the Annual Appeal has raised enough money for the school to replace the covers on the Chapel's stained glass windows with proper protective glass. If you want to get a bit of an idea of the improvements to come ... they will look even better than the ones done some time ago, covering the window on the Quad side nearest the west door and over the central light of the east, sanctuary window. The Piper window – certainly our most famous window – will also come out and be restored. It is the abstract Tree of Life and River of Life in the niche with the Book of Memories on the south (museum) side. If you look at it before restoration, you will see that over the years it has significantly buckled.

Mr Graham Stewart will do this work, which will protect the glass well into the future.

Yours in Christ

University course planning sessions

The liaison officers from the various universities come back to College this term. Prajesh from the University of Otago will emphasise that those doing Health Sciences First Year need to have a plan B if they are not accepted into medicine.

Boarding Matters

No matter how much planning goes into a new project, you never know how it is going to go until it is implemented. We are now at the midway point of the first trial of our new Immerse & Inspire programme – and I am pleased to say feedback so far, from parents and boys alike, has been very positive.

The community service session, led by City Missioner Matthew Mark, was very thought-provoking and made the boys realise how giving up a little bit of time can make a big difference to another person or group. This was followed by the boys carrying out two service projects. First they headed to New Brighton beach for a rubbish clean up, then they helped fold letters and put them in envelopes at the Christchurch City Mission. While the boys completed this task in around 90 minutes, they were told it would have taken about 24 hours for one person to complete – which underscores the statement made above, that “giving up a little bit of time can make a big difference to another person or group”. The Study Skills session run by Patrick Sherratt from Innervate was also well received. It gave the boys a better understanding of how the brain works and how to be efficient in terms of utilising time to study. Two pre-camp evening sessions has seen the boys well prepared for their adventurous journey at Boyle Lodge. And in between all these activities, they have enjoyed plenty of downtime, getting to know other boys in their year group that previously they may not have had much contact with. There has also been some more mundane (but just as important) tasks like cleaning the kitchen, doing their own washing, emptying rubbish bins and keeping their rooms tidy, which have hopefully helped them form some good habits for when they head back home.

Head of Boarding report

The year is flying by and, as we head towards the middle of Term 3 and school examinations, the Year 13s are beginning to realise their days at College are numbered. It is also the time of year when the Year 12s are ready to step up and take over leadership roles in the three boarding Houses. They have now taken on morning and night duties within their Houses and have also applied for their preferred prefect role for next year. Doing House duties at this time is the perfect way to shape them into the prefect leaders of their Houses next year.

This term the boys have had the opportunity to receive evening tuition in each of the three boarding Houses. There is help available in a variety of subjects and this tuition will make a big difference heading into NCEA examinations at the end of the year. The new initiatives that saw the gymnasium and weights room open in the evening, and the introduction of a “fuelling station” in the Dining Hall before sports training, have proved popular. They are well used and much appreciated by the boarders. The remainder of the term will continue to be busy, with upcoming highlights including the House Shoot and Dinner weekend, House plays, and the junior and senior Boarder vs Dayboy rugby games.

Finally, College’s boarding leaders have met with student leaders from other Christchurch boarding schools to discuss the introduction of an inter-boarding school competition for all year groups. The schools involved include College, along with Christchurch Boys’ High School, Christchurch Girls’ High School, St Bede’s College, Rangī Ruru Girls’ School, St Andrew’s College and St Margaret’s College. This will be a great way to connect with boarders from other schools in a social setting and will hopefully become a fine boarding school tradition. We hope it will start by the end of Term 3.

Ben Murray, Head of Boarding

Boarding Programme

Over the past couple of weeks, the boys have visited the driving range and mini putt at Ferrymead Golf, and used up a lot of excess energy on the trampolines at Mega Air in Hornby. They also watched a movie at Hoyts Riccarton on Saturday evening, but unfortunately the ski trip to Mt Hutt had to be cancelled due to inclement weather (strong winds).

From the Archives: The Lusk Albums

Harold Butler Lusk is best known as a first-class cricketer who played for New Zealand, Auckland, Canterbury and Wellington from 1899–1921, and as the New Zealand Amateur Golf Champion in 1910. Christ's College is, however, indebted to him as both a teacher, from 1906–1919, and for two photograph albums that are now held in the College Archives.

Lusk was born in Sydney in 1877 and, after moving to New Zealand, he completed a MA in 1902 and LLB in 1907. At College, Lusk took on many roles. He was a tutor in Flower's House, coached the 1st XV, spent a lot of time in the nets coaching cricket, sang in concerts, and taught English, Mathematics and History. He left to become Headmaster of King's College, Auckland.

Both albums (CCPAL/1 and CCPAL/14) are dated 21 October 1907 and cover the period from 1906 to about 1908 in considerable detail. College events, teams and buildings are included, interspersed with cricket, golf and trips around Canterbury. A few may relate either to his time at university in Auckland or a subsequent visit. Some photographs are repeated on the seventy-two pages that comprise the two albums.

Choosing which of the many photographs to use to illustrate the comprehensive scope of the albums is difficult – but it seems appropriate to begin with a photograph of Lusk himself, and include several photographs of buildings and events with which he was familiar.
